

Contact: Karen Baker
Phone: 706-820-2531 x263
Email: karen@seerockcity.com

FACT SHEET

Mission: Create memories worth repeating for our guests and employees.

Description: Located atop Lookout Mountain in Georgia just six miles from downtown Chattanooga, Tennessee, Rock City Gardens is an enchanted, 4,100-foot walking trail showcasing soaring rock formations, caves and lush gardens. Nearly a half million people from all over the world visit this natural attraction each year.

Special Features:

- 60 to 90-minute, self-guided walking tour along The Enchanted Trail that gently meanders through the 14-acre property
- Massive rock formations estimated to be 200 million years old
- Gardens featuring more than 400 different species of native wildflowers, plants, shrubs and trees
- Panoramic views of seven states from 1,700 feet above sea level
- View of Chattanooga Valley and Missionary Ridge-Civil War battlefields
- Some points of interest along The Enchanted Trail include:
 - White Fallow Deer Park
 - 100-foot waterfall
 - 1,000-ton balanced rock
 - Swing-A-Long Bridge (ideal for pictures)
 - Legendary view of seven states from Lover's Leap
 - Fairyland Caverns and Mother Goose Village, featuring displays of scenes from popular fairytales
 - Carter Cliffs, original homestead of the Rock City Gardens' founders and private residence of the current owners today
- Retail/food areas including:
 - Assorted gift merchants along The Enchanted Trail
 - Wild West Emporium
 - 100-seat Big Rock Grill
 - Cornerstone Station - former Fairyland Fire Station is complete with the original fire truck, local memorabilia and an old-fashioned soda fountain

Origins:

Garnet and Frieda Carter, some of the original settlers of Lookout Mountain, opened their personal estate as a public attraction during the Great Depression on May 21, 1932. Rock City Gardens has remained in the family, with the current owner a third-generation descendant of Garnet and Frieda.